

Bay to choose mayor in election Tuesday

BY D.C. HARVILL

When they go to the polls to select a new mayor in Tuesday's general election, Bay St. Louis voters will choose not only the candidate but also the political party that will represent them in city hall for the next four years.

City Clerk Edward A. Favre is running on the Democratic ticket and real estate manager Martin Morreale is the Republican candidate.

Favre, city clerk for more than eight years, is a native of Bay St. Louis. He advocates a more efficient government with no tax increases.

"We must learn to live within our resources, yet still provide the services so necessary for the health, education and welfare of all our citizens," Favre said.

Favre, 35, is a certified public accountant and a graduate of St. Stanislaus High School and the University of Southern Mississippi.

He is especially concerned about developing jobs in the city so people will not have to seek employment elsewhere, Favre said.

"Mine will be a people to people administration," he said.

Favre defeated former Mayor Larry J. Bennett in the Democratic primary to claim a spot on the ballot.

Morreale, 42, also is a Bay St. Louis native and a graduate of St. Stanislaus and the University of Southern Mississippi.

He has based his campaign on the theme of returning "City Hall to all its citizens."

He also has stated there will be no tax increases during his administration and he will work to attract new business to the city.

Morreale is a former vice-president and loan officer for First Mississippi National Bank's Gulf Coast Division. He also has worked for an investment firm based in Chicago and is a former member of the Bay St. Louis Planning and Zoning Commission.

He said he plans to operate the city as a business.

"I am experienced in the kind of sound fiscal management we need to get the most out of every tax dollar spent by the city," Morreale said.

Since Morreale was the only candidate from his party seeking the mayor's position, a Republican primary was not necessary.

The polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Tuesday.

Polling places are: District One, Bay Senior High School; District Two, the rear of Hancock County Library; District Three, Bay St. Louis Fire Station; District Four, Virginia Hall at Christ Episcopal Church.

West Hancock, Post 58 fire districts created

BY DENA BISNETTE

Hancock County has two new fire protection districts.

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors accepted petitions Monday from representatives of the West Hancock and Post 58 fire protection districts, one of the formalities that will eventually allow the volunteer fire departments in both areas to receive special tax revenues.

Board Attorney Gerald Gex said a local and private bill authored a number of years ago by then-State Representative Walter James Phillips enabled the creation of the special districts, several of which already exist in Hancock County.

The districts may be created where volunteer fire departments provide fire protection and under Section 19-5-189 may include water and sewerage in addition to fire protection.

Volunteer fire department receive rebate funds from the state, but once a district is set up, may qualify for tax revenue each year.

Hancock County Tax Assessor and Collector Edward Murtagh said the two districts were too late with their petitions to qualify for the coming tax year but can receive funds in the 1990-91 fiscal year.

The millage, however, must be used for fire-related purposes only, or for bond retirements related to those purposes.

Gex said the county must advertise its intent to levy the special taxes and must have a public hearing set for 15 to 21 days after that advertisement.

If no one objects to the special tax, the districts may receive up to four mills each year.

Post 58 Volunteer Fire Department, which covers the Standard Community, has also completed a year of probation and is now recognized by the state fire rating bureau as a volunteer fire department.

Areas covered by a volunteer fire department can qualify for a fire rating, which helps determine the cost of insurance coverage in the area. With fulfillment of other requirements, districts can qualify for higher ratings, reducing insurance rates.

New deputy director named at space center

Effective June 17, Stennis Space Center will have a new deputy director.

Stennis Director Roy Estess announced Friday that NASA has named Gerald Smith deputy director of John C. Stennis Space Center.

"We are delighted to have an individual of Gerald's caliber join the Stennis Space Center management team. He has been a key player in managing the return of the Space Shuttle to flight, and his experience in solid and liquid rocket propulsion development and operations will be extremely valuable in moving SSC into the future," Estess said.

The appointment keeps in line with what NASA Acting Administrator Richard Truly has issued as his "first and top priority," filling leadership positions at NASA Headquarters and field centers.

Smith comes to Stennis from NASA's George C. Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala., where he has served as manager of the Space Shuttle Solid Rocket Booster Project in the Shuttle Projects Office since 1986.

He brings to Stennis more than 25 years of NASA experience at the field center and headquarters levels in addition to experience in industry.

During his NASA career, Smith has worked in the Office of the Associate Director for Engineering in the Science and Engineering Directorate at Marshall. In 1983 he was named deputy manager of the Space Shuttle Main Engine Project, and in 1984 he was appointed deputy associate director for Engineering in the Science and Engineering Directorate. Prior to his most recent position, Smith was detailed to NASA Headquarters as chief of Engine Programs in the Office of Space Flight.

Smith, a native of Albertville, Ala., has earned bachelor's and master's degrees in aeronautical engineering at Auburn University and a master's in administrative science at the University of Alabama at Huntsville.

County tax office changes schedule

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Tax Office will be open later on weekdays.

Tax Collector and Assessor Edward Murtagh requested permission from the Hancock County Board of Supervisors before changing his hours.

He explained that a number of customers, particularly those who work outside the Bay-Waveland area or at John C. Stennis Space Center, can not get to his office by 5 p.m.

"We've got people driving in from the test site and breaking and sewer system serving the Diamondhead community."

"We estimate the acquisition cost of the assets of the existing utility as presently installed to be approximately $75,000."

"No tax or assessment should be levied by the Hancock County Board of Supervisors in support of this petition."

The board was asked to be involved in the matter several months ago by Daniel W. Smith, a Diamondhead resident who said he opposed an upcoming sale of the utility system, known as the Diamondhead Utility Company.

Smith was instrumental in forming the Diamondhead Water and Sewer Improvement Association and told the board he hoped the association might be able to take over the utility.

However, the Mississippi Public Service Commission has approved the sale of the controlling interest in Diamondhead Utility Company to Mississippi Utility Company, Inc., owned by Peter Casano of Diamondhead.

Board Attorney Gerald Gex has said at several past meetings that the sale of the utility was a Public Service Commission matter, not an item falling under the jurisdiction of the

MPS plans Sunday outage

Mississippi Power Company has scheduled an interruption of electric service for customers in Bay St. Louis, Waveland and Ocean Springs, June 4, from 4 to 4:30 a.m.

Mr. Jones will be installing new electrical equipment to improve the reliability of the modern transmission system and prevent possible outages in the future.

"We understand that a power outage presents an inconvenience to our customers," Randy Carter, area supervisor said. "But we tried to schedule this outage in the early morning hours so that it would cause as little disturbance as possible. This short, scheduled outage is necessary now so that we won't have longer, unscheduled outages later."

If heavy weather prevents crews from doing the work Sunday, it will be rescheduled for Sunday, June 11 at the same time.

Bandaid alert: Fixing those summertime cuts and scrapes

With summertime upon us, children will be running and playing in the sunshine, and at the same time suffering from the cuts, scrapes and other ailments common in this weather.

Here are four common crises and what should be done for them. By following these precautions and treatments, hopefully your child's summer can be safe and fun.

Splinters: Be patient and gentle

Using tweezers or needle-pointed pliers, grip any exposed part of the splinter. Pull steadily and gently, and slide the splinter out of its path. To reduce pain, numb the area around the splinter with ice before removing the splinter. Remember, left-over fragments will make the area tender. Wash the wound thoroughly with soap and water only after the splinter has been entirely removed.

Deeply embedded splinters are easily removed by probing the surface with a sterilized needle. Lift the end of the splinter out of the wound, then proceed as above.

A painful splinter that is not visible may require a doctor's care. If the splinter is not painful, the body will expel it within a few weeks. If your child has not had a tetanus shot within 10 years, see your doctor.

Cuts and scrapes: Simple cleaning is best

When your child has suffered a scrape or cut, wash off any dirt around the area gently with running water, using soap if needed. A bandage may be helpful in reducing pain and in holding the edges of a cut together.

If dirt is embedded too deeply to rinse off, it may produce a scar and require stitches. Your doctor can tell you if stitching is required. If deemed necessary, stitching should be done within 12 hours after experiencing the cut.

Human bites always require an antibiotic. For even the most minor human bite that breaks the skin, consult your doctor for treatment instructions.

Finally, see a doctor if fat is protruding from the cut, if the cut is profusely bleeding, or if the affected limb is weak or tingling.

Puncture wounds, even from clean objects, require tetanus boosters within 24 hours if your child has not had one within 10 years, or five years if there is a chance of dirt under the skin.

Burns: Cool the burn for relief

Scalds are the leading cause of burns in children. The first step in treating them is knowing how to prevent them. Use a child-proof gate across your kitchen entrances and turn down your water heater to reduce the temperature of hot water.

A first-degree burn produces redness without blistering and does not require a dressing. Covering the burn with cool, wet cloth or petroleum jelly and loose gauze will reduce the pain. If a first-degree burn is not painful after a couple of days you should see your physician.

Second-degree burns are red and have small blisters. These burns can be treated in the same way; however, do not pop the blisters or you risk infection and pain. If second-degree burns are located on the hands or face, you should seek the help of a physician.

Third-degree burns, or those with charring and a painless area, cause scarring and require immediate medical attention.

Poison oak or ivy: Year-round trouble makers

Even in the spring before they appear green, poison oak and ivy can cause a severe rash or reaction. It is important that your children know how to recognize these plants and avoid them. Remember, until they are washed, clothes and other objects can still cause a rash because they contain the plant's oil.

To minimize the reaction, first wash the affected areas with a strong soap. You should apply calamine lotion or cold compress made with Burow's solution for 20 minutes, four times a day. Over-the-counter creams may also reduce itching. If the itching remains severe, or if your child has had a severe reaction in the past, see your doctor. Your doctor may prescribe oral cortisone, a safe and effective remedy that requires a prescription.

Reflections On Life

By Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

God's providential timing

On the first day of spring, I took special note of a phenomenon which I had noticed for the first time just two days before.

As you may know, wild persimmon trees will not bear fruit unless there are both the male and the female tree in a given area. Lo and behold, the male trees begin to leaf before the females do.

The reason, of course, is obvious. It would be a disaster to have female trees in bloom and out of bloom before the blossoms could be pollinated by the male trees. The male earliness, then, is merely a canny bit of life insurance for persimmon trees.

Someone told us about this centuries ago: "Learn a lesson from the way the wild flowers grow. They do not work; they do not spin. Yet, I assure you, not even Solomon in all his splendor was arrayed like one of these." (Matthew, 6:28-29)

Hinckley, Ohio is hardly a household name, but, to bird lovers, it showcases one of those splendid phenomena of nature which ranks up there with the best of them. For decades, March 15 has marked a time peculiar to Hinckley alone in the whole world.

Discounting an early or late bird or two, buzzards, which had migrated south in the fall, return to Hinckley each year precisely on March 15. Adding to the wonder of it all, the buzzards make their nests on the exact site at which they themselves were hatched.

Just a tad less wonderful are the swallows of Capistrano, Calif. which leave October 23 and return faithfully each year on March 19. Although many human inhabitants of Capistrano are not at all enamored of the swallows' habit of building nests of mud under their eaves, outsiders find the annual event altogether fascinating.

Many centuries ago, someone told us about this too: "Look at the birds in the sky. They do not sow or reap, and they gather nothing into barns; yet your heavenly Father feeds them. Are not you more important than they?" (Matthews 6:26)

God's providential timing is found everywhere. The Arctic tern, a bird apparently smarter than humans who live in the sweltering tropics or the frigid North, spends each winter—our northern hemisphere winter, that is—near the South Pole, then returns to spend each summer near the North Pole.

Quite a feat of timing, navigation and of stamina, doing 24,000 miles a year.

Many of the more mundanely minded will argue, no doubt, that it is nature's wonders, not God's, which are at work here. If they insist on praising the Architect's work without praising the Architect, that is strictly their choice. Only, they should bear in mind that to admire the one without the other is sophistry.

In nature, God's providential timing is unfailing and uncannily accurate. In supernature, or we can just say in our everyday life, the old gospel song says that God may not come when we want God, but God is always on time.

Such providential timing is also unfailing, but it is often painful in its manner and delay. God's perennial intervention in nature was set like no human clock in the explosive act of creation. That clockwork-like action continues with breathtaking precision and baffling predictability throughout the dazzling panorama of nature.

It is, then, only human intervention, our privilege and ability to choose freely, which makes the difference between us and the plant kingdom and the rest of the animal kingdom.

God's providential timing in us is mainly that we, in the footsteps of Jesus, are God's chosen and special instruments to the world and in a very personal way to each sister, each brother.

Volunteer attorneys offer free advice on legal line

On Wednesday, June 7, from 6-7 p.m., a staff of volunteer attorneys will be answering legal questions from the general public at 1-374-4160.

This is no longer a toll-free number. All calls will be charged to the telephone from which the call is made.

This service is sponsored by the Harrison County Young Lawyers, the South Mississippi Planning and Development District's Area Agency on Aging, and South Mississippi Legal Services Corporation.

The "First Wednesday Legal Line" offers the public an opportunity to call for legal information and referral services for a specific problem.

This service is especially intended for elderly, handicapped and low-income individuals who may not have access to an attorney or who may not know whether the problem requires the assistance of one. However, everyone with a question about the law is encouraged to call.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

I feel that in this nation many traditions are special to its residents and I have a problem when the U.S. Supreme Court rules a tradition must go.

I am talking about a story I read this past week about how the U.S. Supreme Court has ruled against pre-game prep prayer.

Pre-game prep prayer has been a tradition long before my time and I really have problems understanding the nation's top court's decision.

A high school football game now will not be the same, as I have always felt the pre-game prayer was a very important part of the game.

I realize there are a few who do not believe in prayer, but why should the majority have to bow to the beliefs of just a few.

I wonder if there are others out there who feel the same way I do about the tradition of pre-game prayer.

By the way, I would not be suprised one day to read about a decision from the U.S. Supreme Court ruling to remove 'In God We Trust' from America's currency.

Tuesday the electors of the City of Bay St. Louis will go to the polls and elect the administration that will represent them for the next four years.

The only position up for grabs Tuesday will be for mayor of the city. The race is between a Democratic and a Republican nominee.

The five councilmen all are unopposed, so they really only need one vote to be officially elected in the general election.

It is important for you to understand just how important the position of mayor is for Bay St. Louis. The mayor's position is full time while the council slots are on a part time basis.

That is one of the reasons it is very important for all qualified electors to get out and vote on Tuesday, and remember, every vote does count.

We urge everyone to vote for the candidate of their choice.

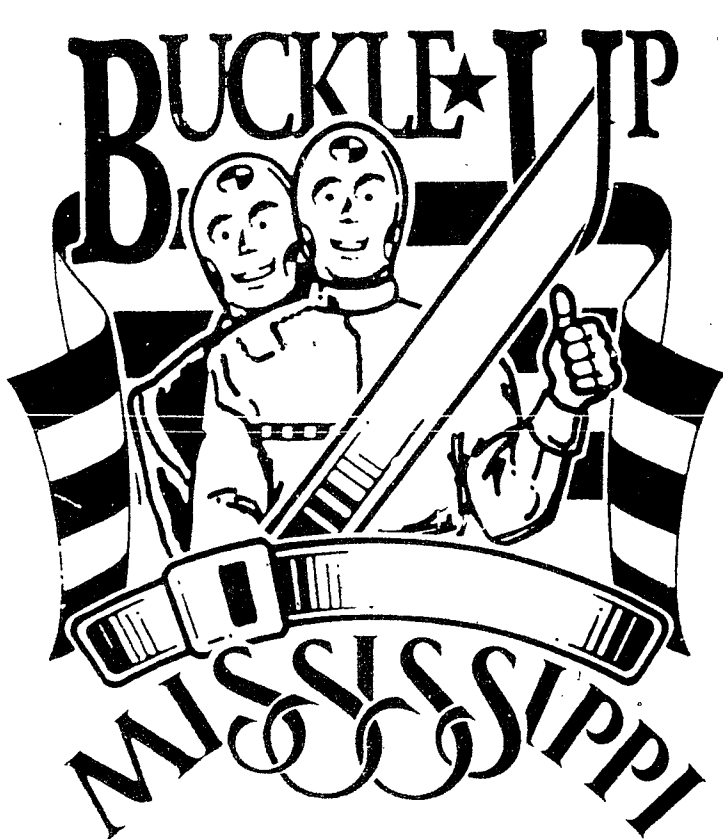

I hope to see you at the polls, which will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

District One residents vote at Bay Senior High, District Two at the City-County Library, District Three, Bay St. Louis Fire Station and District Four at Christ Episcopal's Virginia Hall.

The annual Beachfront Festival will begin at noon today in Bay St. Louis.

The Bay St. Louis Merchants Association, sponsors of the event has made a lot of plans for the day and will be offering a good time for all ages.

See you at the festival.

Teenage pregnancy problem has no easy solutions

Teenage pregnancy is a problem for every Mississippian though you may not realize it. The minute a child has a child, her chance of leading a healthy, happy and prosperous life is threatened.

The rest of Mississippi loses the talents, abilities and leadership of that teenage mother and her child.

If you still don't think teenage pregnancy is a problem that affects you, consider this:

Mississippians spend more than $125 million a year in welfare, food stamps and Medicaid for teenage mothers and their children. Those are tax dollars that you pay—tax dollars that could otherwise be used for education, economic development and other services.

These findings are contained in the report, "Adolescent Pregnancy in the South: Breaking the Cycle." I was honored to serve as co-chair of the Southern Strategic Planning group on Adolescent Pregnancy, which compiled the report.

There is something we can do about teenage pregnancy. This is not a hopeless issue. But as is the case with so many of our problems, the solutions are not easy or quick.

Mississippi had the highest rate of teenage pregnancy in the South (1987) among girls 10-14 at more than four percent 1,000 girls. That's 422 kids who became pregnant under the age 15!

If you count girls ages 10-17, we're talking about nearly 4,700 Mississippi girls who became pregnant before they even had a chance to grow up. The report makes two major points:

First, the only way to make meaningful progress in preventing teenage pregnancy is to get everyone involved in the solutions. Everyone has a role to play—parents, government, the church, the news media, schools, business leaders and community leaders.

Second, the solutions involve more than just knowing what to do or not do. The study found that children whose future seems bleak and who have no future goals seem to be more likely to end up as a pregnant teenager.

That means a good early childhood education is more crucial than ever in order to give children the kind of self esteem and hope that will prevent them from becoming a pregnant teenager.

We need to improve education so that children complete school, avoid harmful life styles and begin to plan long-term goals.

We have shown what we can do if we bind together in the fields of education reform, economic development and infant mortality prevention. The same spirit can prevent the devastation caused by children having children, and the rewards are just as great.

Dear Editor,

I have experienced the power of the press!

My wooden Indian was taken two weeks before Mardi Gras. Dena Bisnette gave me an interview and also managed to get a full-length picture of the Indian on the front page of the Sea Coast Echo.

As Dena also reported, my Indian has been returned, and according to the conversation with the man who returned it; he had seen the article and saved it.

So, thanks to the excellent reporter Deana Bisnette and the editor for printing my story. You have truly done a public service for me.

Again, thank you,
Dorothy Darte

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

Senator Crook believes inmates should be used to build facilities

A longtime legislative critic of the operation of Mississippi's correctional system believes the state should require that prison labor be used to build new facilities to relieve jail overcrowding.

"They've done it for 40 years in Arkansas, and they have some fine prison facilities," said Sen. Robert Crook of Ruleville, the veteran lawmaker who heads the Senate Corrections Committee.

Crook says that out of the nearly 8,000 prisoners in the state's correctional system, you have people with an enormous amount of necessary skills who could be put to work building the facilities we need and at a substantial saving."

His idea, he said, is for the state to buy the materials and organize work crews from the prisoner pool to do the construction. "We can do it. It's just a question of organizing it."

The Ruleville lawmaker said he put a provision for optional use of prison labor in a 1987 legislative act under which the new $15 million state prison facility in Greene County was built. "But they (the Department of Corrections) refused to do it with prison labor," he declared.

Top priority must be given by the state, he says, to getting the backlog of nearly 1,400 state inmates out of the county jails where they are now being kept, much to the consternation of the counties.

"By all means, we need to get these 1,400 state prisoners out of these jails. This problem can be solved with proper leadership," Crook declared.

Crook had been an arch-critic of former Corrections Commissioner Morris Thigpen, who left Mississippi nearly two years ago to become head of corrections in Alabama. "Mr. Thigpen had no short-term or long-range plans to resolve the problem of jail overcrowding," Crook charged.

The Ruleville lawmaker, who has Parchman Penitentiary in his senatorial district, said it is imperative for the state of Mississippi to conclude the 17-year-old federal court order under which it has been required to operate its prisons and construct facilities.

Back in 1972, U.S. District Judge William C. Keady had held in a case styled Gates Vs. Collier that Parchman Penitentiary violated the constitutional rights of inmates because of inadequacy of space and lack of minimal acceptable facilities.

Keady, who held that every inmate was entitled to 50 sq. feet of living space, ordered the state to launch a multi-million dollar prison construction program and institute more humane treatment.

"We have spent over $200 million modernizing the prison system. It's high time that this lawsuit be closed out and the operation of Mississippi's prisons be restored to the state," Crook argued.

He accused Ron Welch, attorney for the plaintiffs, Prisoners' Defense Fund, of "dragging out" the Gates case in order to continue to collect $50,000 a year in attorney fees from the state authorized by the federal court.

"The most ridiculous thing of all is that Ron Welch was given office space by Mr. Thigpen in the Department of Corrections, just like he was a state employee," Crook charged. "He (Welch) was able to pull a lot of confidential files and have access to things he shouldn't have."

When Crook found out several months ago that Welch was using an office in the Department of Corrections he went to Atty. Gen. Mike Moore and had Welch bounced out of the Corrections Department building.

Crook is keen on Gov. Ray Mabus' choice of Lee Roy Black, a native Mississippian and former corrections official in California, who became the state's first black Commissioner of Corrections several months ago. "Dr. Black and I see eye to eye on a lot of matters," Crook said.

Black is in agreement with a proposal by Crook that the governor create a special criminal justice system task force by executive order to undertake a complete study of criminal justice and the corrections system in Mississippi.

On the task force would be legislators, state judges, prosecutors, sheriffs, police chiefs, state government people charged with criminal justice and corrections responsibilities and a cross-section of citizens.

"Mississippi has a crisis in corrections and criminal justice which cries out for solutions," Crook declared.

Mother Nature is an old, old lady and I'm beginning to think she's going senile.

I do believe the part of her mind dedicated to controlling the weather has left her.

Summers keep getting longer and longer and Springs and Falls keep getting shorter and shorter. Winters have managed to top that—they're beginning to come in segments, with Spring and Fall trying to sneak in a few days here and there.

Not being all that familiar with the origins of calendars, I wouldn't venture to say the seasons should coincide exactly to the dates they're supposed to start, or the equinoxes or whatever. I will venture to say the seasons should be compartmentalized, with a block of each rather than a few scattered weeks and days mixed up like party nuts.

Although I have been in Mississippi for many years now, I have never learned to like humidity, and Mother Nature has been trying to give us all double helpings of it lately.

For one thing, I don't care much for bugs, and humidity just breeds them. The higher the temperature and the more damp the air gets, the more active these bugs get and the more they believe in 'Be fruitful and multiply.'

You can dress for cold and humidity, but I think heat and humidity is considerably worse. You dress, or should I say undress, appropriately for that kind of weather, and you get arrested. You also get eaten alive by insects.

One should expect more humidity when one lives close to the water, I'm told. Well, that's fine, but it still doesn't provide a logical reason why high humidity comes earlier every year and stays longer.

Mother Nature must be wandering around in 100 percent cotton that's almost transparent enough to be indecent. That's what I feel like wearing. Everything else sticks to your body as if you'd dressed while still wet from a very hot shower.

Maybe old Mother Nature is a nudist.

People talk about a diminishing ozone layer, greenhouse effects and how cutting down trees and paving everything raises the temperature. What about the humidity? Do these things affect that?

The part of the year that I, and other creatures far more furry than I am, really hate is August. My dogs pant more in August and move only to get a drink of water or when the place they're sitting warms up too much from body heat. I feel as bad as they do and I'm stuck wearing clothes!

How come last weekend it felt like August, and it wasn't even June yet?

I was talking to a friend who had visited Mexico, and we came up with an idea: take sestas during the worst, hottest part of the day. Open all the businesses at 7 a.m. or so, close down right around lunch time and then reopen until 9 p.m. or so.

It would save a bundle on air conditioning and end customer complaints about merchants not staying open until it's cool enough to go out.

It would also save the number of sudden transitions our bodies have to make when leaving an air-conditioned building for an outdoors that feels like a tropical rain forest, where ferns grow so well you expect to see jungle wildlife or dinosaurs lurking behind the potted plants on every porch.

I think air conditioning was actually invented by Father Technology to irritate Mother Nature by disappointing people who try to fight her weather.

Father Technology is what I call the fellow who led Man to discover tool-making. I think he got divorced from Mother Nature after he talked Man into inventing the wheel and people started tearing up her forests to make roads.

You know, maybe Father Technology is senile too. He should have figured out by now that you can't fight Mother Nature and win.

She's getting her revenge, because she's teaching her bugs to like the cool indoors, and they will follow you in.

Maybe Mother Nature isn't losing it after all.

UM offers directory for blues music fans

Music fans can now travel just about anywhere and locate blues clubs or radio shows, thanks to a directory just published by The University of Mississippi's Center for the Study of Southern Culture.

The Living Blues Blues directory lists the names and addresses of blues clubs and radio stations with blues shows in the United States and abroad, as well as the dates and places of blues festivals. The directory also has information on artists, bands and booking agents, record labels, blues societies and publications.

"There's quite a need for a directory," said Living Blues editor Peter Lee.

We were getting calls for that sort of information, and we seemed to be the only source for it."

"While clubs may come and go, radio shows may last only a few months, and artists may switch management overnight, these listings will, we believe, provide a valuable resource to the industry as well as to blues aficionados."

The directory costs $5 and is available from Living Blues magazine, The Center for the Study of Southern Culture, University, MS 38677; telephone (601) 232-5993.

SHOPPING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire
Caire

"June is busting out all over," especially in the dairy sections of local supermarkets, where June—Dairy Month—is being celebrated with all sorts of specials.

Winn-Dixie and Delchamps supermarket shelves are bulging with fresher than fresh eggs at very good prices, and "the corn is high" in the produce bins, so why not quickly cook up:

SOUTHERN SCRAMBLE

1 cup fresh corn kernels, cut from the cob (cooked)
3 Tbsp. butter or margarine (or bacon drippings)
1 green pepper, chopped
Three or four sprigs of parsley, chopped
6 eggs

Pepper, salt to taste
Saute the corn in the butter or margarine or drippings for several minutes, then stir in the green pepper and parsley, and continue cooking and stirring for five minutes or so.

Beat together the eggs, salt and pepper, then pour into the corn mixture, and scramble until the eggs are set to your taste, still moist but not runny, for me. (Four servings).

If you haven't any ham on hand, you might want to stop by the deli department at Jitney Jungle and pick up some of the boiled or baked ham on special, and chop or sliver half a cup or so into your "scramble."

Still in the dairy section, grab some of the ice cream bargains at National supermarket or Jitney Jungle, for instance—there's such a world of festive desserts you can make, starting with a package of ice cream bought at the market! And—without all that work!

One of our favorite all-time desserts came about quite accidentally some years ago, when I overlooked, somehow, a half gallon of vanilla ice cream while unloading groceries from the car!

It was softer than soft when I realized what I had done, or rather had failed to do, so I quickly toasted some slivered almonds I had on hand, crumbled up some left over macaroons and came up with burnt almond-macaron-ice cream! (My version of a dish we had enjoyed at a famous restaurant).

Since that eventful day I have often purposely let ice cream soften, and have added all sorts of combinations—and smile and accept the compliments on my culinary skill! So can you. Heres:

STRAWBERRIES A LA MAMA

(Anyone's mama, I suppose—but delicious).

1 pint fresh strawberries, sliced
1 or 2 Tbsp. sugar, according to your sweet tooth
2 Tbsp. white wine or orange juice

1 tsp. grated lemon peel
1 tsp. grated orange peel
Combine all and let stand for 15 minutes or longer. Serve over vanilla ice cream. (Four Servings).

—From the Fast Gourmet Cookbook by Poppy Cannon, for years food editor of The Ladies' Home Journal.

Although I haven't been catching any fish lately, at least not from the waters, I'm doing quite well at our local markets and so can you. With trout and perch and catfish filets stacked up at Winn-Dixie and Jitney Jungle at special prices, you can indulge to your appetite's content.

It's really difficult, in my opinion, to improve upon fresh fish, quickly broiled or sauteed or baked, without too much of the embellishments which so many cooks feel should be added, although I, like most of us, enjoy the "fancier" recipes on occasion.

When you're lighting up the outdoor grill, try fish on the grill, for instance. Season well, wrap in a heavy foil overcoat, and quickly cook atop the grill. Or use your grill baskets, or place the fish directly on the grill. When I'm too lazy to fire up the grill or am dining "solo" I sometimes "charcoal-bucket-grill" small amounts just for me!

Oh— I'm running out of space, and there are still so many specials to tell you about—more next week!

FACE-OFF—Bay St. Louis mayoral candidates Edward A. Favre, left, and Martin Morreale shake hands as they cross paths on the campaign trail Friday. Favre is seeking the mayor's post on the Democratic ticket and Morreale is running as a Republican. (Echo staff photo by D.C. Harvill)

The exhibit is part of a continuing display of marine, aquatic and environmental artwork at the Marine Education Center which is open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily except Sunday.

Fire department seeks to fill wetlands to build station

BY D.C. HARVILL
BaySide Park Volunteer Fire Department has applied for a permit to fill officially designated wetlands in order to construct a fire station in Ansley.

According to a public notice issued by the Army Corps of Engineers, the department plans to construct a 50 foot by 50 foot steel building on a site near LaFrance's Fishing Camp designated as wetlands.

The structure is to house fire-fighting, civil defense and search and rescue equipment and would serve other community needs, according to the release.

Construction of the building would require that approximately 500 yards of fill material be placed at the site.

The site, adjacent to Campbell's Inside Bayou, is subject to tidal action. Therefore a permit is required under the statutes of the Clean Water Act and the Rivers and Harbors Act of 1989, according to the public notice.

The fire department also intends to install an approved wastewater disposal system at the proposed station.

Conservation, economic, aesthetic, general environmental concerns and flood prevention will be among aspects considered in determining whether the permit will be issued, the notice said.

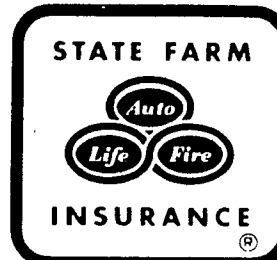

A public hearing will be conducted to consider the permit application if requested in writing before June 22.

Requests for a hearing may be sent to the Vicksburg District, ATTN: CELMK-OD-F and the Mississippi Department of Natural Resources at Post Office Box 10385, Jackson, MS. 39209.

LOCAL BRIEF

REGISTRATION

New kindergarten students who have not pre-registered and other students who will be attending North Bay Elementary for the first time in Fall 1989 can register at the office from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Students will need to furnish birth certificates, social security cards and immunization records when they come to register.

Students who attended the school this year may pick up their report cards during registration days, Principal Rodney Fisher said.

More information can be obtained by calling the school at 467-4757.

board of supervisors.

Smith and others who have spoken to the board have not only alleged that the existing system is inadequate, but have also expressed concern regarding a rate increase proposal still pending before the Public Service Commission.

The increase would raise residential rates to about $14 for water and about $25 for sewerage. Current rates are about $4 and $9, respectively.

BEACHFRONT POSTER—Signed and numbered prints of the tenth annual Beachfront Festival poster will be available for $15 in the arts and crafts section of the event. Bay St. Louis Business Association President Jim Thompson presents a print to Hancock County Circuit Clerk Pam

Beachfront Fest is today

The tenth annual Bay St. Louis Beachfront Festival will begin today at noon until dusk along Beach Boulevard from State Street to the CSX Railroad tracks. Admission is $2 for persons age 13 to 60, and free to children and senior citizens.

Sponsor of the event is the Bay St. Louis Business Association.

The following bands will perform, beginning at noon: Louisiana LeRoux, performing Cajun, country and rock 'n' roll; the U.S. Navy Band with music of the past four decades; the Thunderbolts with rock 'n' roll; Guitar Bo and Miss Due, local favorites who have performed at all earlier beachfront festivals; Speedo '88, with rock 'n' roll of the 50's; and Keith Hoda and the Country Sounds.

The festival will feature more than 70 booths offering food, antiques, fine arts, crafts, flea market and special exhibits.

Among the latter will be the Quartets of the 5th Company Battalion of the Washington Artillery, a Confederate Encampment sponsored by Southeast Louisiana Living History and Reenactment Association Inc.; the Harley Owners Group (HOGS) in a special arrival parade with more than 35 dress-bikes to benefit muscular dystrophy.

A special performance will be presented by the Musicum Consortium, and local cloggers will demonstrate their art on Main Street.

Special attractions for children include:

—The Warren and George ventriloquist team.

—The Fun Brothers, nationally acclaimed master storytellers. Robert Moyer and Ray Vrazel offering six 20-minute shows during the afternoon on Main Street a half block from the boulevard. They will be performing for donations to the Mississippi Rehabilitation and Nature Preservation Society.

—Fossil painting on T-shirts courtesy of the Bureau of Marine Resources. Participants are asked to bring a plain T-shirt and BMR personnel will provide color and fish fossils for the children to create their own T-shirt art.

Cash door prizes totaling more than $200 will be given away during the day. Festival celebrants are asked not to bring ice chests. And the association issues a reminder that glass containers are forbidden on the beachfront by local law.

The festival site will be closed to traffic all day beginning at 9 a.m.

Summer reading program to kick off June 6-8

The Hancock County Library System's 1989 summer reading program will officially open Tuesday, June 6 at the Kiln Library; Wednesday, June 7 at the Bay St. Louis Library; and Thursday, June 8 at the Waveland Library.

This year's theme is 'Hats Off To Readers,' and all school age children entering the first grade through the seventh grade are eligible to participate.

To register, children may go to any one of the libraries and sign the reading contract after deciding how many books they will read during the six-week program. Parents are requested to accompany their children and assist them in setting their reading goal.

After registering, children will be eligible to attend the various activities scheduled at the library where they registered. They must be registered in the program to attend the activities.

The Kiln Library's opening activity will feature a karate demonstration by Linda Schmidt of the Nautilus One in Diamondhead on Tuesday, June 6 at 10 a.m.

Loiacano's Health Club will present an aerobics demonstration on Wednesday, June 7 at 10:30 a.m. at the Waveland Library, and on Thursday, June 8 at 10:30 a.m. at the Bay St. Louis Library.

A schedule of activities for the six-week program may be picked up at any one of the three libraries, and those participating in the program will receive bookmarks, reading records and certificates in recognition of their participation.

Further information concerning the program is available by calling the Bay St. Louis Library at 467-5282, the Waveland Library at 467-9240, or the Kiln Library at 244-1724.

New York modeling career beckons Bay second grader

BY JANET MCQUEEN
The brief modeling career of April Lorraine Griffin has led to a contract with the prestigious Wilhelmina agency and a summer in New York.

The second grader at North Bay Elementary signed with the agency's children's division, Wee Willys, to do print modeling. She is the daughter of Janelle and Gary Griffin and the granddaughter of C. J. and Mary Alice Ladner and Francis P. Griffin, all of Bay St. Louis, and the late Dr. John L. Griffin.

April was enrolled in a five-week program last summer in New Orleans, which featured instruction in runway modeling. A subsequent portfolio was compiled of modeling poses which piqued the interest of the Ford and Wilhelmina agencies.

She attended the 29th International Modeling Convention in New York this spring, competing against children ages 4-8 from all over the world in runway modeling, photoposing and TV commercials. She captured a first place trophy and cash prize in the photoposing category.

April also modeled on "Popeye and Pals" television show.

The slight brunette remains quite unaffected by her newfound fame, although her mother maintains she is "excited."

The two plan to embark on their New York adventure in the near future. When they return home at the end of the summer, April will be just another third grader—with a flair for professional modeling.

Arts Fair for Handicapped hosted June 13-15

The Mississippi Arts Fair for the Handicapped will take place at the Biloxi Community Center on Howard Avenue, June 13, 14 and 15.

Co-hosted by the City of Biloxi and the South Mississippi Retardation Center, speakers will include Lieutenant Governor Brad Dye, Senator Tommy Gollott, Representative Don Grist and Senator Clyde Woodfield.

More than 500 developmentally disabled individuals statewide will showcase talent in music, dance, gymnastics, drama and art and crafts. Art and crafts displays will be exhibited at the Edgewater Mall in Biloxi.

All events will be open to the public and admission is free of charge. Further information may be received by calling the South Mississippi Retardation Center at 868-2923.

Lewis-Granberry

MR. AND MRS. SCOTT A. LEWIS
(Photo by Marcengo Photographers)

St. Augustine Seminary Chapel was the setting for the recent marriage of Helen Marie Granberry of Gulfport and Scott A. Lewis of Waveland.

The bride is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Granberry Jr. of Jackson. The groom's parents are Eldridge and Margaret Lewis of Waveland.

The Reverend William J. Kelly SVD celebrated a Nuptial Mass and officiated at the double ring afternoon ceremony.

Musical selections were presented by pianist Linda Gamel of Gulfport.

Given in marriage by her brother, H. D. Granberry III, the bride wore a formal gown of candlelight taffeta fashioned with re-embroidered Alencon lace encrusted with iridescent sequins, pearls and crystal droplets. The full skirt and sweep train were adorned with identical lace and beaded appliques, while the deeply V-d bodice was accented in the back with a candy box bow. She wore a veil of candlelight illusion and carried a cascade of silk orchids and pearls.

Lynn Granberry of Jackson, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. She was attired in a tea length gown of peach chiffon and carried a bouquet of magnolias.

John Ingelsby of Pennsauken, N. J. was best man. Ushers were Mark Lewis of Avondale, Penn. and Peter Lewis of Waveland.

The groom's mother chose for the occasion a blue gray chiffon tea length dress with lace accented bodice and matching accessories.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Bay Waveland Yacht Club.

On return from a wedding trip to Walt Disney World in Orlando, Fla., the couple will reside in Gulfport.

MR. AND MRS. W. T. JOHNSTON

CLUBS, AUXILIARIES

American Legion Auxiliary Unit 139

Congratulations on the second anniversary of the regular monthly sing-a-long and birthday party sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary Unit 139 for the residents of the Hotel Reed Nursing and Retirement Home. There are 27 veterans who reside there, as well as other folks from the surrounding areas.

This activity was held on Thursday, June 1. Mrs. Lena Mae Oustalet played the piano, while Mmes. Roslyn Weathers led the singing and Oris Planchard went among the residents to encourage them to join in.

One can see the enjoyment the residents derive from this activity by the hand-clapping, feet-tapping or singing along with the music.

This will be the last sing-a-long until September, but the birthday parties will continue during July and August. The residents enjoy these visits and look forward to them as much as we enjoy doing them.

Hancock Women's Club

The Hancock Women's Club will have its meeting Thursday, June 8 at 11 a.m. at the home of Lorraine Townsend, 434 Pecan Drive off Old Spanish Trail.

A buffet luncheon will be served. Guest speaker will be Barbara Cropp, coordinator of the Gulf Coast Club for battered women and abused children. Members are asked to bring donations for the Hancock Food Pantry.

KIRK EDMONDSON AND KAREN FAYARD

Fayard-Edmondson

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Fayard Sr. of Bay St. Louis announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Karen Lee Fayard, to Kirk Darin Edmondson, son of Carl Edmondson Jr. and Mrs. L. W. Flowers, both of Fort Worth, Tex.

Miss Fayard is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Teddy Morel of Bay St. Louis and the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fayard Sr. of Waveland.

The bride-elect is a 1980 graduate of Bay Senior High School and attended Pearl River Community College for three years. She is employed with American Service Life Insurance in Fort Worth.

Mr. Edmondson is the grandson of Carl Edmondson Sr. of Paris, Tex., Mrs. Edgar McClain of Clebourne, Tex. and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Benjamin of Fort Worth.

He is a 1979 graduate of Lake Worth High School in Texas and is a heavy equipment operator with the City of Fort Worth.

MAYA ANGELOU

Maya Angelou's new book, "The Heart of a Woman," is a collection of her autobiographical essays. It is a powerful and moving work that explores the author's life and her relationship with her mother.

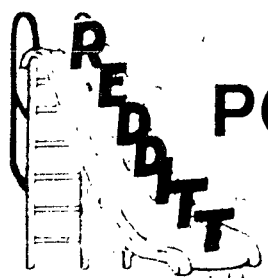

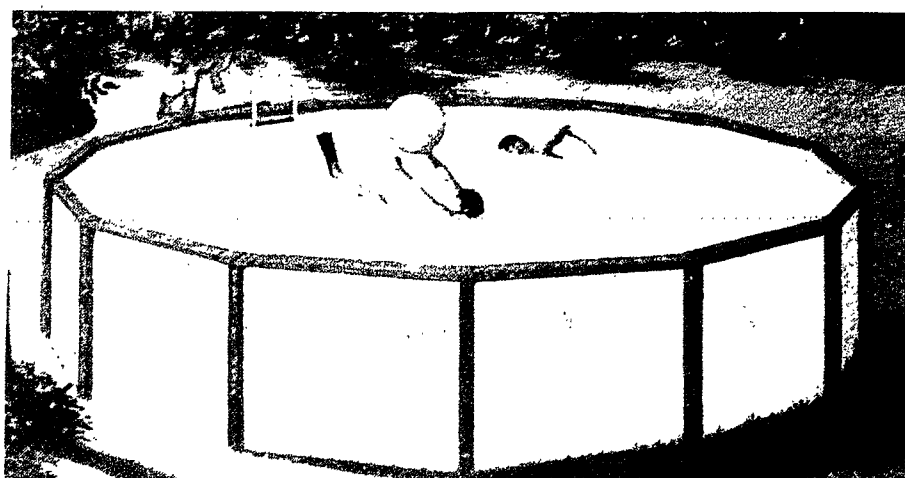

The two-part, one-hour program features the first episode from "The Heart of a Woman." It is a powerful and moving work that explores the author's life and her relationship with her mother.

In this video profile, Angelou returns to her hometown of Stamps, Arkansas, where she recalled the details of her childhood, the minutiae that she feels fueled her creativity.

"You'll remember certain things and some things you'll forget forever," she tells a group of schoolchildren in the first part of the program, "but I hope you'll remember me. I see myself in you as a young person in Stamps."

Next, a segment from "Facing Evil," a 1988 special that captured a three-day symposium on evil held in Salado, Texas, also shows how Angelou draws strength from the past by celebrating and transforming it.

Okra, one of the most popular vegetables, grows profusely in summer days, valued by many for its flavor.

Native to West Africa, okra is a widely grown subtropical crop. It is a fruit or pod, and its name is Bantu.

Okra is quite edible, also—fried, smothered, pickled or whole. And what would food gumbo be without okra? Its unique flavor is what makes it so popular.

As my grandmother used to say, "Okra is good for you." This is true. Okra is a long, thin vegetable that is often used in soups and stews. It is a good source of fiber and has a low calorie count. It is also a good source of vitamins A and C.

Bluehost

The sixth annual Jubilee in Poplarville will feature six days of demonstrations, blueberry picking, and a variety of other activities. The event is held in the heart of the town and is a great time to enjoy the local culture and scenery.

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire
Caire

Okra, one of the favorite summer vegetables in the South, grows profusely through the hot summer days, even when cultivated by reluctant gardeners such as I.

Native to West Africa, okra is widely grown in tropical and subtropical countries where the fruit or pod is known under the Bantu name "gumbo."

Okra is quite a versatile vegetable, also—steamed or boiled, fried, smothered, stewed, pickled or whatever you choose. And what would our famed seafood gumbo be without its thickening qualities and unique flavor?

As my grandmother used to advise us, "Eat more okra, Chere, it cools the blood and is good for you." So, it was "okra this" and "okra that" all summer long at her house. And, she followed the old Southern custom of cooking whole pods of okra atop butter beans or field peas, not only adding flavor to the other vegetables, but also keeping in more of the vitamins and minerals.

Okra is delicious, simmer-boiled barely until tender, then chilled and served with oil and vinegar, pepper and perhaps a dash of salt. It's also tasty braised or sauteed in bacon drippings, after you wash the pods and slice off the stems.

French fried okra slices or "okra oysters" with an almost oyster taste (hence the name) are also favorites. Delicious as a vegetable at mealtime, these are also popular on the hors d'oeuvre tray. And, for a soothing summer salad, try:

OKRA, TOMATO AND ONION SALAD
1/2 lb. fresh okra
2 white onions, thinly sliced
2 tomatoes, cut in eighths or smaller, as you prefer
1 tsp. lemon juice
4 Tbsp. olive oil
1 Tbsp. plus a bit more, if desired, of apple cider vinegar
1/2 tsp. Creole mustard
Dash of hot pepper sauce
Steam or simmer-boil the okra until tender, adding the lemon juice to the water to cut down on the slipperiness! Drain the okra and cut off the stem ends and place in a bowl.

Add the sliced onions. Make the vinaigrette dressing—of the oil and vinegar, mustard and pepper sauce—and pour this over the okra and onions. Add the tomatoes.

I like to be far more generous with the oil than with the vinegar in my dressings, but a three-to-one ratio of oil to vinegar makes a good vinaigrette, unless you prefer yours quite vinegary-bitey.
